Shabbat Morning at Temple B'nai Tikvah

Had you walked through the front door of Temple B'nai Tikvah on a recent Saturday morning, here's what you would have seen:

The office in front of you is locked, and the lights are off. It is Shabbat, after all – a holy time. But all around you, there is a thrum of activity. Shabbat doesn't mean quiet, after all. Instead, it's simply life and activity of a different kind than we experience during the rest of the week.

In front of you, and slightly to your left, you see that the social hall is being set up for Forty and Forward – our fortieth anniversary party. Later that day, hundreds of people will gather in that room for a wonderful celebration of this milestone in our congregation's history. It will be a joyful celebration.

You hear sound coming from downstairs, and going into the Temple basement, you find our younger Shabbat school students gathered with Katie Baker for Junior Tefillah. They are singing, making silly movements with their hands, and even dancing a little bit, all while giving new, youthful voice to the ancient prayers of our people. Going down the hall, you find our older students already gathered in their classrooms, studying Jewish holidays, Hebrew, the prophets, Jewish history, and a host of other topics.

Then, you go back upstairs. Walking through the lobby, you see a large banner reminding you of our Mitzvah 613 Torah project, and you remind yourself that you still need to sign up to write a letter in the scroll.

In the chapel, Torah and Java is meeting – a lay-led study group, exploring the meaning of the weekly Torah portion. Passing the library, you see me – I'm just finishing my weekly half-hour with our grade 7 students, and they're getting ready for their studies with their other teacher, Leslie Handy, for the rest of the morning.

You and I fall into step as we head down the hall to the sanctuary. Entering, we see Tracey Rumig teaching her weekly yoga class, her loyal students contorting themselves into positions that many of us can barely imagine. You help me roll the Torah to its proper place, and I thank you for your help.

After a few minutes, the yoga class ends, and a few of our Shabbat School parents begin to drift in and prepare themselves for services. By 10:30, there are dozens of us there, and with the first few notes of Mah Tovv, we've all transformed ourselves from disparate individuals into a single community of worship. We sing and recite prayers; we study Torah; we conclude with a sip of juice and a bite of challah.

From there, we head to our Kiddush luncheon, and we’re not alone. The kids from downstairs are headed to that luncheon, too, like guided missiles with their lasers set on the cupcakes ahead. Parents join for the repast. Indeed, it seems like the whole community is there. Food does a great job of drawing Jews together.

In time, the food supplies run low, the schmoozing draws to a close, and everyone heads out to their cars. You go to your car, too, and, as soon as you sit down, you take a deep breath. What a Shabbat it’s been. And there are still several more hours left.

What you need to know is that the whirl of activity you’ve just experienced at Temple is by no means unusual. This – or some variation of it – is what it’s like most Shabbat mornings at our synagogue.

To put it bluntly, this is a wonderful time to be a member of Temple B’nai Tikvah. As in the past, there are wonderful people to be found here, there’s a lot going on, and together we’re doing a fantastic job of making Judaism live and thrive in truly joyous ways.

And if you think that was impressive, you should come next week, too – there are always great things in store for you here at Temple B’nai Tikvah.

AGM

Temple’s Annual General Meeting (AGM) will take place on Wednesday, June 19, 2019, at 7:00 pm in the Sanctuary. We will elect Temple officers, approve a budget for the coming year, hear from Temple officers and staff, and recognize outstanding service. We look forward to seeing you at our AGM!

SOCIAL ACTION: YOUTH GROUP HELPS COLLECT FOOD FOR MIRIAM’S WELL

During the month of April, the Great Pyramid in the foyer was slowly dismantled as its approximately 20 ‘stones’ were filled with food. These donations are greatly appreciated by the Miriam’s Well Food Bank at Jewish Family Service.

A special thanks to our Shabbat School kids, parents, madrichim and teachers for helping make this mitzvah project so successful. Congratulations to grades 4 and 5, who won an ice cream party for collecting the most food! Thanks to our youth group for this creative project – we can’t wait to see next year’s theme!

SHABBAT SCHOOL UPDATE

EMMA FABER AND ALLYSON BILLINGS

May 4th was our last day of Shabbat School. Our students rotated through stations learning about Jewish people around the world. We celebrated the end of our year together with an "indoor" BBQ as our Calgary weather wasn't quite cooperating! Thanks again to all of our parents who helped to set up, provide food, and clean up. We could never have done it without you!

It's hard to believe that our Shabbat School year is now complete. Thank you to all of our teachers for everything that you did this year! You truly made Shabbat School a fun and caring place to be for our students. Also, thank you to our Madrichim for your leadership and support in our classes. Thank you to Morah Katie for leading us in prayer and beautiful song this year. A big thank you goes out to Morah Emma for her leadership and organization. She will continue to be our Educator next school year. Have a great summer everyone!

CARING COMMUNITY NEWS

SUSAN KLASSEN

I am reflecting on the year, as summer approaches. Thank you to all of you who called and visited our members this year. Great thanks also go to the cooking crews who organized themselves and produced monthly soups and baking, right up until spring. Many volunteers participated in two main projects involving baking and deliveries; those happened during the Days of Awe and again at Purim.

I was really thrilled that the Shabbat school students recently created greeting cards for this committee to deliver on our visits. Emma Faber was instrumental in inspiring the teachers and students to send their good wishes through their artwork. Who wouldn't love to get a hand-made greeting like that?

In early June a meeting is planned with some talented ladies to further develop our visiting crew. We should have a good plan in place for the fall. Please feel free to contact us if you, or a family member would like a friendly visit or phone call. As always, just call the office and let Lana know and she will pass on the message.

Lastly, thinking of the fall already, I am wondering if there is interest in an information session delivered by the Alzheimer's Society. Please let me know if that is of interest to you, since I plan to follow up with their offer.

Wishing you all a warm and gentle summer.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

CYNTHIA SIMMONS

Canadian Jews: Smart, Generous, Committed

A few weeks ago a report on the results of a 2018 survey of Jews in Canada was released. Conducted by the Environics Institute together with individuals from the University of Toronto & York University, the research focused on what it means to be Jewish in Canada and was modeled closely on the 2013 Pew Survey of American Jews. (<https://www.environicsinstitute.org/projects/project-details/survey-of-jews-in-canada>)

As a result, it allows for some interesting insights into who we are both uniquely as Canadians and in contrast to our neighbour to the south. The results have been creating a bit of a buzz. My overall impression is that the findings paint quite a positive picture of Canadian Jewish life and I wanted to share some of them with you.

As a People

The report estimated that the core Jewish population in Canada was roughly 392,000. If you include the individuals who consider themselves “partly” Jewish, the number grows to 413,000. Canada has the 3rd or 4th largest population of Jews in the world (depending on how you count France). We are, not surprisingly, urban dwellers, with 71% of us living in either Toronto (48%) or Montreal (23%). Calgary has approximately 2.2% of the national population of Jews, but this number is growing. The age distribution shows that 51.5% of us are between 25-64 years old. Eight out of ten Canadian Jews have completed at least a Bachelor’s degree (this compares to 31% of the general population). Eighty percent identify as being of Ashkenazi heritage.

Education

Most Jews in Canada have participated in one or more types of Jewish education when growing up. This is most likely to include attendance at an overnight summer camp, a Hebrew school, or a Sunday school. Close to half have attended a Jewish day school. Nine in ten Canadian Jewish men have had a bar mitzvah and four in ten Canadian Jewish women have had a bat mitzvah. Most of us claim some knowledge of the Hebrew language – 75% saying they know the alphabet, 60% say they can read at least some Hebrew words in a newspaper or prayer book. The results show that Jewish schooling has a positive effect on community cohesion with those who have attended a Jewish day school stating that being part of a Jewish community and celebrating holidays with family are essential parts of being Jewish.

Jewish life and practice

We Canadians care about and support Jewish organizations. Six in ten of us report that they (or someone in their household) belong to a synagogue, temple, or prayer group. This is twice the percentage found in the States. Equally as impressive is that we contribute financially to Jewish organizations or causes – 80% having made such a donation in 2017. In the US only 50% do so.

Significantly they found that Canadian Jews show very little difference between age cohorts in their degree of religious involvement (such as attending services) or in their degree of community participation (such as donating to a Jewish organization). This suggests that our community will not only grow, but continue to be active and cohesive as the younger generation ages.

So who are we and why?

Sixty-four percent of Jews in Canada say that being Jewish is very important in their lives (46% in the U.S.). Seventy percent are attracted to books that contain a Jewish theme. Sixty-nine percent are attracted to Jewish themes in movies and plays. Over a third (38%) say that having a good sense of humour is essential to being Jewish.

SOCIAL ACTION: TEMPLE SUPPORTS CHILDHOOD LITERACY

A big 'thank you' to everyone who helped with this year's Calgary Reads Book Sale. Temple members donated 70 boxes of books! Thank you to the schleppers, the set-up team, the sales team, and to everyone who stopped by to shop for books.

What have we done right? Speculation abounds. It looks to me like a series of right decisions have been made and hard effort carried out by our leaders, our community, and our individual families. These right decisions and actions have created a positive feedback loop – creating a committed, informed, and lively culture. To put it into a more religious form of expression, we have moved from strength to strength. Let's keep it up.

TIKKUN LEIL SHAVUOT

Join us for our annual Tikkun Leil Shavuot on Saturday, June 8, an all-night study session with scholars drawn from our community. Beginning with a Yizkor service at 8:00 pm and ending with a sunrise Shacharit service at 5:00 pm, we will study, eat dairy, drink coffee and go for walks. This popular study session is a great way to create community and learn with an eclectic group of teachers.

ADULT EDUCATION UPDATE

JENNIFER EISERMAN AND REBECCA KREL, COMMITTEE CHAIRS

Torah and Java continues, on Saturdays from 9:45 am to 10:30 am in the Chapel. Come join us for a lively discussion about the weekly parsha, accompanied by coffee/tea and a snack.

Watch the e-blast announcements for a Chant Service in the latter part of June, led by Betsy Jameson, during what is our regular Torah and Java time at 9:45 for an hour and a half of meditative chanting that focuses on themes that arise from the week's parsha. Singing ability is not necessary.

Next Year's Programming: Now is a great time for us to start thinking about the 2019-20 adult education programming. If you have thoughts about speakers for Lunch and Learn or Dessert and Learn, if you would like to make suggestions regarding Torah and Java, or if you have an idea for something new, please let us know. We aim to meet your adult learning needs.

LIFE & LEGACY: THE TEMPLE LEGACY CIRCLE

Last month we celebrated our 40th Anniversary with a “40 and Forward” party. Now let us all focus on the Forward part, by celebrating the beginning of our Temple Legacy Circle (TLC).

The TLC is our honour roll of people who are committing to make an after-life gift to the newly established Temple B’nai Tikvah LIFE & LEGACY endowment fund, held at the Jewish Community Foundation of Calgary. Our goal is to protect the financial future of our congregation. As of this writing, 10 families have made this commitment by signing Letters of Intent to indicate that within the next 12 months they will formalize an after-life gift. Kol Hakavod to them all!

The LIFE & LEGACY program is an opportunity for all of us to ensure the stability and health of the participating Calgary Jewish agencies, long after we are gone. We can all contribute. And it requires none of our current resources!

Having 10 families join the Temple Legacy Circle in just our first four months is an amazing achievement. Won’t you join us in growing our TLC?

Please contact Bonnie:
bonniejoykaplan@gmail.com, or 403-245-0568.

And if you would like more information this month, we encourage you to attend the presentation at Beth Tzedec on June 19. You may have seen this ad in the ePom:

Have you thought about the future of the Calgary Jewish institutions that have been important to you throughout your lifetime? Can you imagine our community with only one synagogue or no Jewish day schools? What about a boarded up JCC or no social service programs to help those in need? To maintain the programs and services we have come to expect as a community, we need to secure the financial future for our children and grandchildren. Join Diana Kalef of Calgary Jewish Federation and Stuart Myron of Jewish Community Foundation of Calgary to learn about Calgary’s LIFE & LEGACY initiative and how it will change the face of the future of Jewish Calgary. Lunch at 12 noon, $5 for members and $7 for guests. RSVP to the synagogue office at 403-255-8688 by Monday, June 17th. For more information, please contact Donna Caplan at 403-271-3066.
