The Right Side of History

Are you going to be on the right side of history? It's a haunting question – one that inevitably digs at any serious student of the past. If you were an Egyptian midwife under Pharaoh's rule, would you have killed Israelite babies, or saved them? If you had lived in the U.S. during the 1850s, would you have been a slaveholder, or an abolitionist? If you lived in Poland during World War II, would you have turned over your Jewish neighbours to the Nazis, or hidden them in your home?

Such decisions often become clearer with the passage of time. Of course the midwives should have saved the Israelite babies. Of course slavery was a terrible blight on American history. Of course the right thing to do was to shelter Jews from the Nazis, even though doing so was so horribly dangerous.

In the moment, the choices aren't always so clear. If only the "of courses" were more evident when the decisions themselves had to be made.

My friends, we North Americans today must make decisions that will determine whether we end up on the right side of history. Today, millions of refugees wander the world in search of homes. Like our ancestors at many points in our own past, they have been uprooted by hate and conflict of all kinds, and they need safe havens – places where they can live safely, where their kids can go to school, and where they can work and thrive and flourish in an atmosphere of economic hope and opportunity.

Sadly, their search for safety takes place in a world of fear — a world of suspicion rather than welcome, a world of walls rather than bridges.

As Jews and as human beings, we should look with horror upon attempts to vilify people based on their race, religion, or ethnicity, and instead reach out our helping hands to those who need us. And today, unfortunately, millions are in need of the help that we can offer.

As a congregation, we have an opportunity right now to put ourselves on the right side of history. Along with Living Spirit United Church and Friends Church, Temple B'nai Tikvah has been providing support to the Ghannam family — the parents, Adel and Hiyam, along with their four children, aged eight to seventeen. The Ghannams made their way here to Canada from their home in Aleppo, Syria about a year ago, and the three congregations have been helping them in a variety of ways.

Still, the family has pressing needs — Adel, who has a part-time job, needs help finding more employment; Hiyam could use assistance working on her English; the teenage daughters could benefit from tutoring; and the family needs certain household goods and some furniture. (If you can provide any of this support, please contact Susan Podlog at spodlog@shaw.ca.)

Of course helping the Ghannam family is the right thing to do. We're Jews, after all — a people called upon to love the stranger because we know what it's like to be strangers; a people who have ourselves been refugees far too often in the past; a people whose most sacred obligation is that of building a kinder, more compassionate world for all people everywhere.

So tell me, are you going to be on the right side of history? If so, please give generously to the Ghannam family, and please work with me to build a world of open borders and open hearts. To put ourselves on the right side of history, our choice right now couldn't be clearer.

Shalom,

Rabbi Mark Glickman

How YOU Can Donate to Temple

Tribute Cards — for just $18 you can send a card to a loved one for any occasion.

Oneg Sponsorship — sponsoring an oneg is a wonderful way to commemorate an occasion and to help Temple. It's also a great way to celebrate a milestone birthday, marriage, birth or anniversary, or to commemorate a yahrzeit. Sponsorship rates are $180 for an oneg, $150 for a Saturday Kiddush, $54 for wine and cheese at Shabbat Shiraz and $250 for a pizza party. (Group sponsorships are welcome for a pizza party.) Your generous donation is announced before Shabbat services to acknowledge and share with the congregation in your family memories and celebrations.

Safeway & Calgary Co-op Gift Cards — when you purchase a Safeway or Calgary Co-op gift card, a percentage comes back to Temple. It's that easy. Co-op cards need to be ordered by completing an order form. The office has Safeway cards in stock in denominations of $25, $100 and $250. Just contact the Temple bookkeeper to purchase. Watch for further details to come on this fantastic Temple fundraiser!

How Is a Synagogue Like a Carob Tree?

Our Shabbat School hosted a Tu B'Shevat Seder for students, parents, and Temple members on Saturday, February 11. It was fun, spirited, musical, and educational. We drank unfermented wine (aka grape juice), and ate fruits for each season. The Seder, which spoke to all ages, included a reading about a character known as Honi the Circle Maker:

One day, Honi was walking on the road and saw a man planting a carob tree. Honi asked the man, "How long will it take for this tree to bear fruit?"

The man replied, "Seventy years."

Honi then asked the man, "And do you think you will live another seventy years and eat the fruit of this tree?"

President's Message

Betsy Jameson

The man answered, "Perhaps not. However, when I was born into this world, I found many carob trees planted by my father and grandfather. Just as they planted trees for me, I am planting trees for my children and grandchildren so they will be able to eat the fruit of these trees."

I've heard this story many times. The first time, I was a child in religious school. I don't remember if that version named Honi specifically, or if it specified carob trees. But I vividly remember hearing the story from Rabbi Leo Stillpass in Galveston, Texas, when I was six or seven years old. And I remember the message — if it takes trees a long time to bear fruit, then there's no time to waste. We need to plant them now.

I grew up in Congregation B'nai Israel, the oldest Reform Jewish congregation in Texas, founded in 1868 by immigrant German Jews. Since I left Galveston, the city has shrunk from a population of 70,000 to about 49,000 year-round residents. The Jewish population is smaller, but Congregation B'nai Israel still thrives. Generations of members provided the buildings, the staff, and the endowment that guarantees that there will be a Reform Jewish congregation l'dor v'dor — from generation to generation.

A synagogue is like a carob tree. We plant our energy, our engagement, our volunteer hours — and yes, our money — to ensure that our grandchildren and their grandchildren will have Jewish educations, life cycle ceremonies, services, culture, and community.

This is the first time I've talked about money, so let me say first that we're OK. Some of our members are challenged in the current economy, but others have donated and increased their Fair Share contributions. That is how it should be — everyone giving the energy, volunteer hours, and money that we can.

Now, our Ways and Means Committee is initiating a long-awaited planned giving campaign. Some of us will soon hear from Donna Riback, Ron Bing, or Bonnie Kaplan about options for planned giving. Please consider these ideas. They are the seeds to ensure the future of Temple B'nai Tikvah.

Let's plant some trees.

Rousing Tu b'Shevat Seder

by Jenny Laing

On February 11, the congregation celebrated Tu b'Shevat with a rousing seder full of fruits, juice and singing. This was the first time the Shabbat School community invited the congregation as a whole to join them in celebrating a holiday, and with over 120 people, it was a smash hit! Rabbi Glickman and Morah Katie kept the seder interesting, lively and fun with story and song, and there was participation from everyone from 3-93 years old! Many thanks to the Parent Committee volunteers, who arrived early, set tables, cut fruit, created beautiful seder plates, and then stayed late to clean up!

Planned Giving

YOU are a founder of Temple – YOU are a member who has worked to support Temple and help it grow. YOU want Temple to continue to exist and blossom into middle age and onward. YOU are the person the Ways and Means Committee plans to meet over the next few months to discuss planned giving. That means YOU want to ensure Temple's future fiscal stability by endowing funds or leaving an insurance policy with Temple as beneficiary.

One of three of us (Ron Bing, Bonnie Kaplan, or Donna Riback) will contact you. Each of us has made a financial commitment to Temple through an endowment or through life insurance. And we want to answer your questions, hear your suggestions, and join us in Temple's planned giving.
